Queen Signed '17 Will Without Aid Claim Now Made

Queen Liliuokalani is now said to have signed the purported will of 1917 on August 29 without aid. If she was physically able to hold a pen and write her name nearly a dozen times on that day, why was she unable to feed herself on the same day, and why did others have to administer nourishment?

An answer to this question is sought by Delegate J. H. Kihio Kalaianalale. The delegate relates that he and the princess returned to Honolulu on Aug. 29, this year, and following their usual custom, called on the late Queen Liliuokalani.

"This is the day on which the queen is supposed to have signed the will," says Kihio. "But when Mrs. Kalaianalale and myself called on the queen, she was being fed. Evidently, I believe it was."

The delegate added that he would undoubtedly contest the purported will of 1917. He has not decided what action he will take regarding the will of 1917.

$10,000 BOND FOR SCHROEDER CANCELLED

Bond for $10,000, which was given by a local insurance agency for H. A. Schroeder when the latter was taken into custody by federal officials following his indictment for complicity in the Hindu plot, was automatically cancelled when Schroeder was arraigned in San Francisco, according to the U. S. attorney's office.

The bond was only for the appearance of Schroeder before the officials in San Francisco. An attempt was made here to cancel the bond, but Schroeder had already left for San Francisco and the efforts were without avail. Nothing is known here regarding Georg Rodiek's bond. If he furnished one, it was done after his arrest in San Francisco, officials say.

The U. S. attorney's office was never informed of the amount of the Rodiek bond.

RUSSIA SITUATION IS NOT HOPELESS

Leaving Petrograd since former Premier Kerensky fled from the Russian capital, Harry Meyers, representative of the American Tobacco Co., expresses conviction that the Bolshevik government will not stand.

"The Bolsheviks do not represent one-tenth of the population of Petrograd, and not one one hundred thousandth of the entire Russian population," he declared with conviction. He speaks of the overthrow of the provisional government as one accomplished with little but incipient rioting and practically resolved itself into an agreement that Kerensky be permitted to flee.

"The Russians will not stand for the Bolsheviks. They are the most radical of anarchists," Mr. Meyers declares. Satisfaction was expressed by the tobacco men when informed that followers of Korniloff and Kaledines were mobilizing in strength to attack the radicals now in control at Moscow and Petrograd.

Like many others he believes that Lenin is the catspaw of Germany, of which in time the Russians will free themselves, he thinks.

Frederick McCormick, noted newspaper correspondent and well known throughout the Far East, is in Honolulu today on a steamer returning to the States.

Having left Petrograd in late September, Mr. McCormick has seen much of the chaotic conditions in Russia. He is not pessimistic of the final outcome and expressed hope today that the better, more substantial elements of Russia will assert themselves.

REGISTRANTS CAN'T

"Men over or under draft age may still enlist after December 15."

This same rule applies to enlistments in the army. December 15 is next Saturday.
